CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., MONDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 14, 1916.

PRICE TWO CENTS.

BAR ENDORSEMENT IS GIVEN JUSTICE WESLEY O. HOWARD

Preparedness and Professional Ethics Also Defended by Notable Speakers at Annual Banquet.

Patriotism, national defense and an endorsement of Supreme Court Justice Wesley O. Howard for reelection were the conspicuous features of the annual banquet of the Ulster County Bar Association Saturday night at the Eagle Hotel where upwards of sixty lawyers gathered and paid tribute to all three. Former Judge of the Court of Appeals Alton B. Parker was present with Judge A. T. Clearwater and Judge Howard, the guest of honor, while County Judge Jenkins presided as toastmaster. In the speeches bench and bar eulogized the justice of old-time Ulster and Judge Clearwater made a vigorous defense of the legal profession.

The main dining room of the hotel was decorated with American flags draped about the walls while a huge flag was hung directly behind the speakers' table. Each of the smaller tables at which the diners were seated bore a vase of pink carnations and ferns while a carnation lay at each place. Three pieces of Muller's orchestra furnished music during the evening.

With an exceptional dinner disposed of, Judge Jenkins read letters of respect from Justices Kellogg and Ladd, of the appellate division, and from Judge Chase of the Court of Appeals. As to other guests who failed to make replies, the toastmaster cited the newly designated appeal of the People vs. Garstenfeld in which the momentous issue of applying the thumb to the nose and wiggling the fingers was upheld as disorderly conduct. Guests who had failed to make acknowledgment were accordingly ruled liable under this decision amid much laughter.

Resolution Is Offered.

Judge Jenkins then proceeded to introduce Judge Howard but was interrupted by Attorney Amos Van Etten, who asked permission to offer a brief resolution expressive of the sentiment of the bar of Ulster county toward Judge Howard. The resolution was read and seconded by Attorney Henry E. McKenize and also by Judge Parker, who expressed his approval of any movement to send back to the bench men who had proved themselves worthy. Judge Parker declared it his ideal of the selection of a judge when, without regard to politics, the members of the bar united in the support of a candidate. The resolution was then unanimously adopted by a rising vote. The resolution was as follows:

"It is the sentiment of the Ulster County Bar Association that the record and experience of the Hon. Wesley O. Howard upon the Supreme Court Bench justify its recommendation of him for reelection."

With this happy introduction, Judge Howard was again called upon and spoke in response as follows:

"Everything I intended to say has been forgotten, and I didn't intend to say anything anyway! I would be unhuman if I did not appreciate the sentiment of these gentlemen with whom I have lived, done business with and presided over these four years. I have always been interested in Ulster county since the time I held my first term of court here one bright April morning when the lawyers were all smiling and the pleasant impression then made has been lasting. It is not any attempt of flattery when I say that the bar of Ulster county at that time was to my mind superior to any other bar in my judicial district, containing a galaxy of great lawyers."

A Most Congenial Bar.

"My contact with the lawyers of Ulster has always been pleasant and your endorsement is gratifying, of course. I thank you exceedingly for your attitude toward me and if I go back upon the bench and live, I hope to merit your good will for fourteen years as I never could wish to preside on any bench anywhere where the surroundings and the bar are more congenial than in Ulster county."

Judge Howard then referred to Judge Parker's first appearance upon the bench in Rensselaer county and of the favorable impression the jurist made upon the late Frank S. Black at that time, an impression shared by the speaker because of the court's refusal to set aside a big verdict he had secured at that time. The speaker said that for that reason he could and was even willing to forgive Judge Parker for being a Democrat.

"Judge Clearwater was fortunate," he observed, "in not being re-elected to the bench for today I am penniless instead of being a millionaire like the jurist."

In conclusion, Judge Howard said that he was mighty glad he came, expressed his gratification at the good will shown him by the bar and thanked all present for the pleasure given him by the dinner, the society and the resolution. Another round of applause greeted the speaker as he sat down.

Parker's Reminiscences.

Judge Parker was next called upon and gave some most interesting reminiscences, saying that he came as an old friend and neighbor. He

GREAT ENTHUSIASM AT REVIVAL CLOSE

Thousands Braved the Cold and Storm and 100 Brought Lunch in the Afternoon—Converts to Meet Next Monday Evening.

The clouds dispersing and the storm clearing made it possible for over three thousand people to attend the closing revival service Sunday evening at the St. James M. E. Church. One hundred of these had attended the afternoon service, bringing their lunch in order to be at the evening meeting. Such a spirit shows intense interest in the work going on. A reservation was made in the church for the converts who could be able to attend, and over 200 were present. This magnificent audience was a pleasing sight, and the very atmosphere seemed to pick out such hymns for the first part of the service as "Oh, Happy Day," "Wonderful Words of Life," "I Need Thee Every Hour" and the "Doxology." Dr. F. B. Seeley, who was spokesman for the service, said "Who says religion is dying? This wonderful audience shows it lives. Who says the old gospel has lost the power of appeal? Look at the large number of converts before us."

After several beautiful songs under the leadership of Mr. Meredith, Mr. Tullar took his stand on the raised platform where he could command the attention of all, and delivered an excellent talk, pleasing the hearts of all, even causing many applause. He said in part: "It is certainly wonderful to have such a people in Kingston as this, who understand that the church's sole purpose is to help men and women. It is impossible to express to you folks an appreciation of all the fine things you have done for me. I have felt the warmth of your hearts, of your fellowship, of your handshake, for it is not every place God has given me a chance to help such as you to serve Him. One of the things that has made my work easy is the habit of calling me by name on the street; it is a help to me to feel at home and I shall go from here with memories of God's people in Kingston. We must think of this as our last service, but if you come to the West Shore station tomorrow morning before the train leaves, we will have a speech and a few songs, something simple in character as my wife and I had with the girls in the Stuyvesant Hotel this morning."

"I want to thank these pastors, for these Men of God have the honor of arranging the evangelistic movement; of making it possible for you men and women to come here. I want to thank the choir. It has been fine to have you all here night after night, singing. It has been a sacrifice, but that meant a blessing. I want to thank the chief workers, S. D. Gibson and W. S. Eltinge, also the army of workers who have devoted so much time, thought and diligence to our noble work. I want to thank W. Whitting-Fredenburg for his work in training and getting his wonderful chorus choir together."

"At this time Dr. Baragwanath politely interrupted, saying that Mr. Tullar had been speaking of just the things he had planned saying. Said Dr. Baragwanath, 'I wish to thank the church people of Mr. Tullar. They made this possible. Telling of the great work of the newspapers had been in the work of the fine way in which they had reported the meetings. Hundreds thus knew about the services and read the message from day to day. Of his gratitude to the newspapers for the fine things said about himself. Said he, 'I do not believe to the Kingston newspapers have a hammer, but I believe they have a saw, and while these meetings have been going on, have been 'sawing wood.'"

"My text is taken from the first four words of the Bible, 'In the Beginning, God.' This may seem a peculiar text because the complete sentence is not given, but if you have any strength left for listening to discourse on the rest of this sentence, I will take up more when I finish this. Every thing in our life we get by contrast or comparison. Our language is a particular thing; we speak of one thing and suggest another; and when I speak this word beginning, you think of the opposite, 'ending.' You speak of riches, and suggest a thought of those who are poor; of sickness—being well; of life—death. 'In the Beginning' suggests the very highest type of success that can come to anything. Wherever you find anything that has had God for the beginning, and you will find it stamped with success."

"Wherever you find anything started by man you find it stamped by failure. I am glad I have a God that can grow a rose, a blade of grass, and the wonders of nature. If there was no Bible, no resurrection day, would love God just for nature, Friends, some say, 'I do not believe the Bible.' You cannot, but believe nature."

"To the young men, I would say that it is the regret of the older people that they did not accept God in the beginning. I wish I could make it ring in your hearts from now on, to make God first in your lives. You young men have a peculiar sense of pride about you, you dress neat and tidy. Probably you do it because there are ladies here tonight. But there is more, God Almighty is here. In every minute of life, we are offering ourselves to God. We are

WILL WILSON PICK ONE OF THESE THREE FOR SECRETARY OF WAR?

Washington, Feb. 14.—Who will be the next secretary of war, is the all-important question in official circles at the present time. Many conjectures are being made as to the man whom the president will select to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Lindley M. Garrison. Among those mentioned for the place are Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane, Col. E. M. House, often called the "President's private diplomat," and Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy.

Another rumor shifts Secretary of State Lansing to the war portfolio and puts Col. House in as secretary of state.

clothed with what we think, with what words we speak. It tints or taints the character, we build day by day.

"Boys when flying kites
Can haul in their white-winged birds,
But you and I cannot do that way
When we are flying words."

"To the older people, I would say, are you giving God his rightful place in your lives? Have you got God in your business? Give Him the brightest and the best. To the housewife, are you giving Him a permanent place in your home? To everyone, if you are not getting as much out of life as you should have? Let God have His way with you. God's way is the right way. 'Keep in tune, or the great heel of God will crush you.' My closing message, is that the great hosts of Kingston folks will put themselves in God's care, and let Him have His way with you. Beginning this night, let the music of Him roll out from your lives. 'In the beginning God.'"

Too much praise cannot be given to all who helped in this great work, and since our space will not permit giving the name of every individual, we give the department chiefs, chief workers, S. D. Gibson and W. S. Eltinge; section chiefs, Messrs. Bernard Healey, L. B. Basten, Fred Dressel, E. E. Becker, Dr. George Cranston, E. B. Schepmoes, Frank DuPont and Frank Hyatt. Besides these, there were ninety directors and their assistants, the music committee, choir and publicity committee.

Brave Snowstorm to Hear Tullar.

Sunday afternoon eighteen hundred people made their way, in spite of the heavy snow, to the St. James M. E. Church, and to use Mr. Tullar's term, "there was no chronic spell of weariness. All were willing to do something. The yoke is for the work-horse, not for the one in the stall. For some folks have been 'stalled' for many years."

The singing was pleasing, being led by Floyd Vogt, and after many songs, each present had a part in the scripture lesson for the day. Fifty responded, arising, one at a time, and reciting their favorite verse, from the Book of Life.

"Friends, we are going to have a stormy day, heart to heart talk, and if there is anything in my heart or soul that is worth taking out and 'dusting off' I am going to do it. My topic is one word only, 'Double.' There are only three places in the Bible that this word is used in the same sense, first, Isaiah, 40: 1-2: 'Comfort ye my people saith your God. Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem and cry unto her, that her warfare is accomplished, that her iniquity is pardoned; for she hath received of the Lord's hand double for all her sins.' Second, in Isaiah, 61: 7: 'For your shame shall ye have double; and for their confusion shall ye rejoice in their portion; therefore in their land they shall possess the double; everlasting joy shall be unto them.' Third, in Zechariah, 9: 12: 'Turn ye to the strong hold, ye prisoners of hope; even today do I declare that I will render double unto thee.'"

"These passages bring to mind the period in which they were written, when in Judea they celebrated every fifth year the 'Year of Jubilee,' that is, every slave, debtor or mortgagee was set free. The slave holder, creditor or mortgagee, received the parchment he held, thus cancelling any claim he had on anyone, and then nailed the parchment to the door-post of the forgiven man's house. Do we when we pray, 'Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors,' mean what we say? Do we forgive our trespassers? Jesus is our double, for our sins He was nailed to the cross. Let Him be your 'double.'"

PEDAGOGUES OF HIGHLANDS.

School Ideal Should Be Social Their Message.

Resolutions of regret on the death of Prof. Charles E. Snyder were adopted and two addresses on school work were delivered at the midwinter banquet and meeting of the Schoolmasters' Council of the Highlands held Friday and Saturday at Newburgh. Dr. William T. Whitney of the Port Chester schools and Dr. I. A. Downey, of Lincoln, Neb., were among the speakers. Business sessions closed the meeting Saturday afternoon.

In his address on school problems Dr. Whitney declared that public education must be perfected as a social service and said that a majority of teachers lack adequate social experience. Two years of normal school are not sufficient to make up for any shortcomings in culture, said Dr. Whitney, and he made a plea for reorganization of schools so that the children would become active participants in the work of the classroom, interpreting their own experiences and drawing therefrom that which will be of value in future years.

Basketball at Y. M. C. A.

Some fast basketball was played at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday evening. Two of the games were in the Y. M. C. A. Church League and in the first game Trinity M. E. The third game was won by the Employed Boys who defeated the Young Crescents by a score of 28 to 4.

In the first game the Trinity players were Cism, H. Beckwith, G. Beckwith, Gregory and Elmendorf, while the First Presbyterian players were Wenzel, Smith, Johnson, Bonesteel and Every. The Rondout Presbyterian players were Miller, LeFever, Lazatte, Stevens, Meeker and Rowland, while the Albany Baptists were Leighton, Betts, Kelly, Rodie and Bell. No relief is expected before tomorrow when the temperature will slowly begin to rise, according to the weather bureau.

The coldest weather of the year was experienced in Washington today. Six degrees above zero was the low mark.

New York, Feb. 14.—This city was gripped today by a severe cold wave that followed in the wake of a snow storm that covered the streets with a layer 5½ inches deep, hampered transportation and over-taxed the resources of the street cleaning department.

From midnight until 8 a. m. the temperature dropped steadily until two above zero was registered in the government weather bureau. Then it began to rise slowly.

The first death as a result of the cold wave was recorded early in the day. Jacob Lanfer, aged 60, died on the platform of an elevated railway station.

REGATTA TO LEAVE RIVER?

Poughkeepsie Scouts Report of Intercollegiate Stewards' Action.

The report that the stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association has definitely decided to change the place of the annual regatta in June from the Hudson river course at Poughkeepsie to Cayuga Lake, near Ithaca, is not taken seriously in Poughkeepsie. It is claimed, however, that refusal of the New York Central railroad to provide observation trains on the West Shore is the cause of the shift in courses.

WILSON ADMITS HE IS A CANDIDATE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 14.—In a letter to Charles Q. Hildebrand, secretary of state of Ohio, President Wilson today authorized the use of his name on the Ohio ballots as a presidential candidate to succeed himself.

In his letter the president states he is unwilling to enter into any contest for the Democratic nomination for president. He adds, however, that as the Ohio statutes expressly stipulates that the consent of the man must be obtained before his name can be placed on the ballots, he will consent to the use of his name.

MIDGETS DEFEAT CATSKILL SCOUTS

The High School Midgets won their seventh consecutive victory Saturday afternoon, this time swamping the Catskill Boy Scouts by the decisive score of 56 to 14 in a game played in the Catskill Y. M. C. A.

Lack of individual playing was the cause of the outcome of the game in favor of the home lads, the basketballers from Kingston forgetting the spotlight as they have in all their games played so far. Their pass work dazzled the Catskill team and when the ball had been advanced to the basket there was seldom a failure to sink it into the net.

The game was very cleanly played, only ten fouls being called on Catskill while Kingston was found guilty of violating the rules nine times. It is doubtful if a faster group of youthful players can be found in this vicinity because in every game a big score has been rolled up. By half time the count for the locals was 43, while that of their opponents was 10.

Ten men were used by the Kingston team in the game, five fresh athletes relieving the starters. The score shows Diamond and Martin were the best point scorers, Diamond tallying 16 points while Martin scored 12. These forwards have a remarkable eye for the basket and take every advantage of the good pass work of their teammates.

The Catskill team entertained the locals most royally after the game, in spite of the fact that they were beaten. Delicious refreshments were served to the hungry players and the home boys were loud in their praise of the good sportsmanship of the Catskill team. The score:

FOUR NEW CASES OF TYPHOID FEVER

Further Examination Required Before Definitely Determining the Identity of the Carrier—Suspected Milk Is Excluded From City.

Four more cases of typhoid fever have developed, making a total of ten cases that have been reported since last Tuesday to Health Officer Frank A. Johnston. All ten cases are among consumers of milk from the dairy believed to have a typhoid carrier in its employ. The health officer does not believe that many more cases will be reported and thinks that the situation is well in hand.

When asked this morning as to whether a report had been received from the laboratory of the examination made of cultures taken of the three milkers employed on the suspected dairy farm the health officer replied that the report was to the effect that two specimens were negative while one was reported as suspicious. Under these circumstances he did not feel at liberty to give out the name of the suspected typhoid carrier until a further confirmatory test is made. This test will be made as soon as it possibly can. In the meantime until the matter is definitely settled one way or the other the milk from the suspected farm will be excluded from the city.

MAN FROM GRANITE WAS VERY NOISY

William Countryman of Granite enjoyed rather an expensive jag in this city Saturday evening and Sunday morning as it cost him $5 this morning when he was arraigned in police court before Recorder Lang. It seems that William came to Kingston to visit his daughter on Saturday and early that evening he registered at the Kingston Hotel on Crown street and then left the hotel. William was sober at that time, but when he returned later in the evening he had acquired quite a jag. When he entered the hotel he informed Proprietor Flowers that he was hungry and the latter had some food prepared for William, who was escorted to the dining room. William, however, raised such a disturbance that he was removed and taken to his room. Several times during the night he persisted in coming down stairs and using vile language. He was carried back each time by the night clerk, who finally got tired of such strenuous exercise and as William's language gradually grew stronger Mr. Flowers called in Policeman Fout, who escorted William to the county jail. This morning Mr. Flowers appeared to press the charge against William. Countryman said that he could not remember making a disturbance and did not recollect getting drunk. He said he had a wife and five small children who were waiting his return and rather than remain away from home for five days he paid the fine imposed by the court.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Never take a mean advantage of anyone in any transaction, and never be hard upon people who are in your power.—Dickens.

We must all be seasoned one way or another.

TASTY CHEAP MEATS.

Those who would serve meats that take long, slow cooking must plan their meals some time beforehand.

All meats should be immediately removed from their paper wrappings, as much of the juice soaks into the paper. The paper itself often imparts an unpleasant flavor to meat. Keep meat near ice or in a cold place and wipe it with a damp cloth before putting it on to cook.

Red meats are easier of digestion, if properly cooked, than the white meat of pork and veal.

Far more meats are spoiled by too intense heat than by too little.

The liquor in which fresh meat has been boiled makes good foundation for soups and broths.

Salt meats should be put into cold water to cook, changing the water if the meat is very salt. This liquor is good to make bean or pea soup. Never throw away a bit of meat liquor, for there is any number of ways of using it in gravies, sauces and for flavor in vegetable dishes.

Twenty minutes to the pound is considered good time to cook meat well done, usually not counting the time until after the first twenty minutes, as it takes that time for meat to become heated.

In cooking meats one of two things must be decided by the housekeeper, time or money, which to you is the most valuable. Chops and steaks are quickly prepared, but are expensive. We must remember that the most costly meat is not the most nourishing, as much of the best flavor and nutriment is found in the cuts taken from the part of the animal where the muscles are most active. This meat is the lowest in price.

In steaming meat there is less loss; in stewing it, about a fourth of its weight is lost in cooking. When steaming 30 minutes to the pound should be allowed in the cooking.

A small amount of meat will flavor a dish of vegetables, cooking together in the oven. Casserole cooking is recommended because of this economy.

EIGHT YEARS OF ADVENTURE

Bernard Maines Returns to Tell of Many Thrilling Experiences in the Army and With Circus Companies—Was With Jess Willard.

Bernard Maines, who left Kingston about eight years ago, is visiting relatives and acquaintances in town. Mr. Maines was only 19 years old when he went away from here. Since he has been gone he has visited every state in the union. When he left Kingston he went direct to New York city, where he boated around the harbor for about a year. Then he enlisted at 46th street and 6th avenue in the Fourth U. S. Cavalry. Afterwards he was honorably discharged, having been declared to be an expert rifleman. His company left a while afterwards for the Philippine Islands. If he had re-enlisted he would have seen service there too. He was stationed at South Dakota, where he was in several skirmishes during the Indian uprisings. He has also been with Barnum & Bailey's big show, Forepaugh & Sells and Cook & Wilson in charge of nine trained lions, the largest weighing over 600 pounds. Mr. Maines was at one time with 191 Wild West Show when the present champion of the world prize fighter, Jess Willard, was with them. He has had some very thrilling experiences while he has been away.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

ARMED MERCHANT VESSELS CRUISERS

After March 1 U. S. Passports Will Not Be Issued to Americans Who Travel on Armed Ships.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Feb. 14.—At the risk of straining still further the delicate relations existing between the United States and Great Britain and her allies, the administration practically has decided to support Germany in her stand that armed merchant vessels in reality are auxiliary cruisers. This information came today from sources close to President Wilson.

In line with his policy, it was learned, the government after March 1 will refuse to issue passports to Americans who contemplate sailing on armed merchant vessels. With but fifteen days interval between now and when the German decree goes into effect, the efforts of all government agencies were being directed today to keep this country out of the entanglement that officials are fearful must follow. The best method, it has been decided, is not merely to warn Americans to stay off armed merchantmen, but to compel them to stay off by denying them passports.

Officials admitted today that this course undoubtedly will bring forth a protest from Great Britain. What the result will be they refused to attempt to forecast.

William Voteend wife, who have been boarding at the Maxwell House for some time, a new living in the Mont Ross hotel on Mont Ross street.

K. O. H. Cancels "Triangle" Pictures.

The "Triangle" photo-plays which New Yorkers had been paying as high as two dollars a seat for at the Knickerbocker theater and have been presented at the opera house for the past few weeks, have been discontinued on account of not proving as popular a drawing attraction for the Kingston theatergoers as they had been accustomed to. The opera house and Star theater will continue former policy of a change every 4 or 5 days and give patrons the "Paramount" program which includes the world's most popular screen favorite, dainty Mrs. Pickford and Little Marguerite Clarke, the one actress in all the movie world who is giving Miss Pickford a close race for supreme popularity of the screen, and other famous players, also the "Metro" pictures with Francis X. Bushman, Ethel Barrymore, Beverly Bayne, Madame Strevor and other stars. The "Big" features will be placed back on a regular program and presented every Monday and Thursday and will be exhibited thirty days ahead of any competitor in the city. The "William Fox" photo-plays which have been shown at the Star only for the past seven weeks will be given on Monday at the opera house also. This extraordinary combination of the longest film producers in the world gives the opera house and Star their supreme control of all the best motion picture plays with exclusive privileges on "Paramount," "Metro" and "Fox" productions.

THEY SAY.

Observance of Lincoln's birthday in Kingston was largely confined to the closing of banks and public offices in accordance with custom. The main observance of the occasion will be in the high school exercises this evening.

The members of the local police force now have another problem to wrestle with and minor topics have been shelved until the question of whether the police shall be paid twice a month or once a month as at present is definitely settled. The police board desires to ascertain the sentiment of the force regarding whether a change from the monthly to the semi-monthly system of payment is desired and a paper is being circulated among the force with the request that each member signify his preference by writing either "monthly" or "semi-monthly" alongside his name. So far all but eight members have signed. Seven members desire being paid as usual, by the month, while 11 signify that they desire to be paid semi-monthly.

Dealers report the usual amount of interest manifested by the youngsters in valentines and the postal receipts will be given their annual boost from this exchange of greetings. Manufacturers of valentines changed their policy this year, according to one well known dealer, who called attention to the neater designs that marked the offerings. The more elaborate efforts composed of celluloid and lace paper are quite out of the running in favor of the pretty little cards carrying appropriate sentiments. In view of the fact that this is leap year, considerable impetus to the trade was expected but to date this has not been borne out. A report at noon today said there was congestion in the mails of the several bachelors whose cards were recently published in these columns.

Firemen's Fund Check Received.

The board of fire commissioners held a meeting at the city hall on Saturday afternoon for the purpose of receiving the check for the firemen's fund which comes from the two per cent paid by foreign insurance companies doing business in New York state. The amount received was $1,684.18, and as is payable to the Fire Department Association, under the terms of the insurance law and the city charter, it was at once turned over by the fire commissioners to Peter P. Zeeb, treasurer of the Fire Department Association.

Animal and Plant Life in Brine.

Just west of Promontory Point station, Utah, is a pond cut off from the Great Salt Lake by the railroad embankment. At times of high water in the lake this reservoir fills by percolation through the embankment, but during the summer this water is concentrated to a brine by evaporation. The deep pink color of the brine is a phenomenon that appears in salt ponds generally when a certain concentration is reached. In the salt ponds of San Francisco bay this color is due to a certain bacillus which lives in saturated brines and also in the heaps of salt as it is piled for drainage and shipment. Prohibitive to life as such an environment might be considered, strong natural brines are, in fact, inhabited by a number of minute organisms, animals as well as plants. The pink color disappears in winter or when fresh water is introduced into the pond.—United States Geological Survey.

Human Sacrifices.

In battle the Aztecs strove to save life so that they could use their prisoners as human sacrifices to the gods. They had the art of ambush reduced to such a science that it was nothing unusual for them to bring home 25,000 prisoners after a campaign. Their battles were not fought for the sake of any principle, nor yet to gain territory. They fought in order to capture prisoners, and the hot headed young soldiers were given wooden swords, for fear they might in the heat of battle unwittingly slay a foe. A dead enemy was already dead, and hence of no value for sacrificial purposes. Were the Aztecs humans? Well, not so that you could notice. But their destruction of prisoners on the altars of their beautiful temples was done in the name of religion and hence not reprehensible.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Test For a Field Glass.

Inquiry has it that the absolute and infallible test of a field glass by the purchaser is to see what size letters can be read across the street from the optician's shop.

Isn't. The real test is to climb up a long and bushy hill until the breath comes a hundred to the minute, then snatch for the glass, reposing in a shirt pocket, to see whether the buck is the one you want before you fire. If it won't go in your shirt pocket it is not the glass you want; others are made that will. If it shakes in your agitated hands it is not the glass you want. You cannot see enough more with a high power glass to pay for the times when it is unusable, because you cannot hold it steady.—Outing.

Tree That Furnishes Butter.

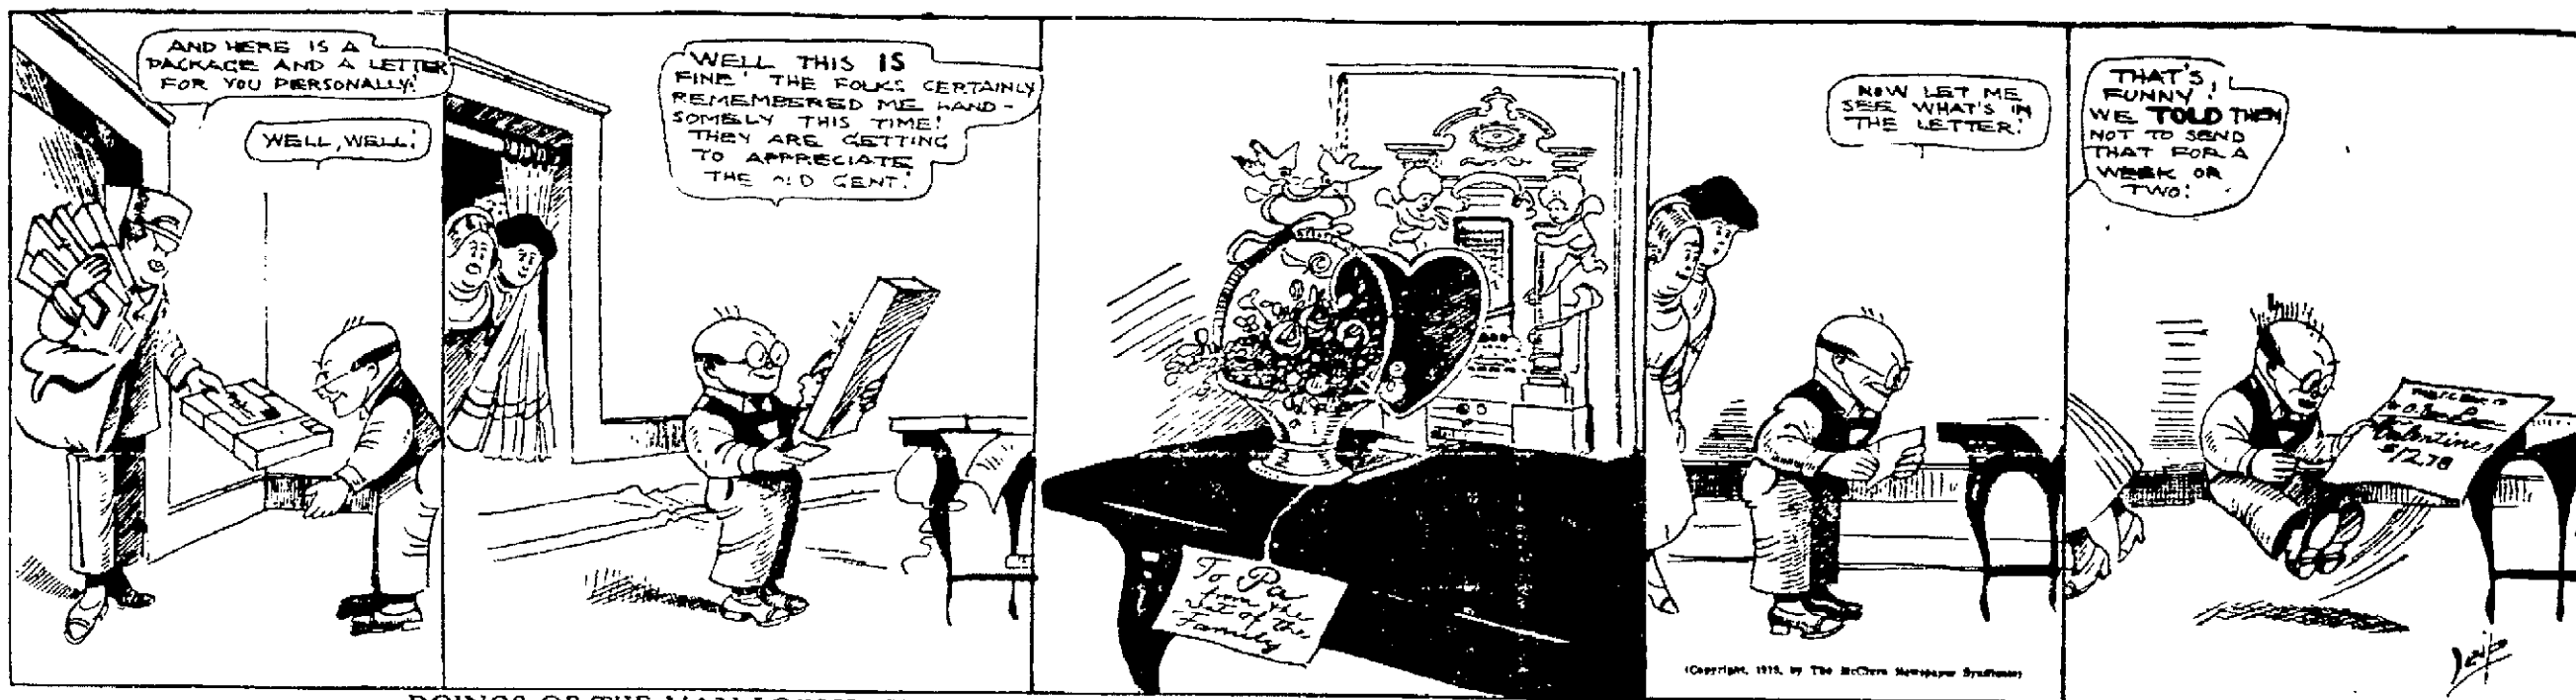

A tree grows in Ashanti and around the woods near Kabbia resembling in appearance the English oak, and it is said to furnish excellent butter. A curious fact about this vegetable butter is that it keeps in perfect condition all the year round.

Ben Franklin's Push Button.

The first electric push button was made by Benjamin Franklin, who used it in connection with a device for charging the metal railing before his house, much to the surprise of certain loafers for whose proximity the great man did not exactly yearn.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Never take a mean advantage of anyone in any transaction, and never be hard upon people who are in your power.—Dickens.

We must all be seasoned one way or another.

TASTY CHEAP MEATS.

Those who would serve meals that take long, slow cooking must plan their meals some time beforehand.

All meats should be immediately removed from their paper wrappings, as much of the juice soaks into the paper. The paper itself often imparts an unpleasant flavor to meat. Keep meat near ice or in a cold place and wipe it with a damp cloth before putting it on to cook.

Red meats are easier of digestion, if properly cooked, than the white meat of pork and veal.

Far more meats are spoiled by too intense heat than by too little.

The liquor in which fresh meat has been boiled makes good foundation for soups and broths.

Salt meats should be put into cold water to cook, changing the water if the meat is very salt. This liquor is good to make bean or pea soup. Never throw away a bit of meat liquor, for there is any number of ways of using it in gravies, sauces and for flavor in vegetable dishes.

Twenty minutes to the pound is considered good time to cook meat well done, usually not counting the time until after the first twenty minutes, as it takes that time for meat to become heated.

In cooking meats one of two things must be decided by the housekeeper, time or money, which to you is the most valuable. Chops and steaks are quickly prepared, but are expensive. We must remember that the most costly meat is not the most nourishing, as much of the best flavor and nutriment is found in the cuts taken from the part of the animal where the muscles are most active. This meat is the lowest in price.

In steaming meat there is less loss; in stewing it, about a fourth of its weight is lost in cooking. When steaming 30 minutes to the pound should be allowed in the cooking.

A small amount of meat will flavor a dish of vegetables, cooking together in the oven. Casserole cooking is recommended because of this economy.

KINGSTON, N. Y., FEB. 14, 1916.

Hosts of persons who have thus far taken but slight interest in the collection of income taxes will change their attitude if the Legislature of this State adopts the recommendations of the Mills committee, the report of which is now in printed form. It provides for taxing net income in excess of $1,500 per year. Married persons get an exemption of $1,800, with $100 additional for each child under 18, but this amounts to nothing, since in such cases the incomes of both parents and of their children are added together. The man who gets $200 more than his exemption will have to pay $1 a year and the percentage increases for larger excesses until the rate for a net income of $2,000 above the amount of exemption becomes $20. For larger amounts the tax is 3 per cent higher, in proportion. In other words, a large number of persons who are now exempt will be taxed small amounts while those who are already paying a Federal income tax will have to fork over three times as much as at present. Moreover, everybody who gets upward of $20 a week will be a subject of investigation just as is now the case with persons who just miss having to pay the Federal tax. A new horde of inspectors and spies at attractive salaries will come into existence. Theoretically, the information obtained by these investigators will be kept secret, but anybody with "pull" enough will doubtless be able to secure official information regarding his neighbor's private affairs.

The Mills committee asserts that its plan will not really increase taxation, but will equalize it, since it is proposed to abolish the personal property tax, which is notoriously levied in a scandalous manner. This may be so, but we do not believe it. Taxes are going to be higher and Government nosing into private affairs is going to become more persistent as time goes on, and which ever political party is in power. Year by year the Government enters upon new fields of activity, involving ever increasing expenditures. Anybody who calls himself a philanthropist and can organize a society of some kind to back him can get almost any appropriation bill passed for the good of humanity. He can scare the lawmakers into fits with monster petitions signed by supposed constituents. Once let anything which comes under the head of what Roosevelt calls "social justice" get started, and there is no stopping place. All politicians promise economy if they are elected to office, but their pledges are never thoroughly carried out, because that is impossible. Of course, some day there will be a great popular reaction which will carry us back to first principles, but that event is quite a distance in the future.

Pleading indications of the progress of the revival spirit are exhibited even in the ranks of the conservative legal profession. While no delegation was detailed by the bar in annual banquet assembled to attend any meeting elsewhere, nevertheless a noteworthy appeal was sounded to the younger members to keep to the sawdust trail of probity and self-denial to the eventual rich reward which seems to await most lawyers. Most commendable in every way were these admonitions except on the subject of the size of the lawyers' fees. Like the revivalists of the church, the lawyers have no limit when it comes to the passing of the plate. They are not subject to any lay restrictions on the size of the fee and, apparently, charging all the traffic will bear, will not result in the lawyer being overpaid. Some of the emoluments made public in the traction investigation in New York appear to many lay minds as out of all proportion to the services rendered. But that criticism is not raised by the legal profession, excepting those few members who happen to be making the inquiry. In substance, the majority of the members of the bar hold that virtue should be sought after, but by no means is it intended that virtue should be its own reward.

Lawyers, like doctors, do much work for nothing, and we are not disposed to argue very strenuously that they are not entitled to "even up" by charging their rich clients fancy fees. In fact, the same principle prevails in business. When those of us who pay our bills buy groceries or clothing we are, whether we know it or not, chipping in toward the payment of the accounts of dead beats. The only advantage which the lawyers and doctors have is that they can recoup themselves for losses and services in big sums, while the rest of us have to get even by a fraction of a cent at a time. This is because the rest of us have effective competition. Our rivals cut prices and underbid us on contracts, while such performances are practically unknown in law and medicine. We doubt that the day will ever come when we can publish an advertisement for a merchant and later on collect from him the amount of money which we happen to need at that time.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Jiggs says he can't warm up to his work." "Certainly not; he makes artificial ice."—Buffalo Express.

"Have you a careful chauffeur?" "Very. He never runs over any one unless he's sure he can make a getaway."—Judge.

"There are many methods of punishing naughty children." Yes; but spanking takes the palm."—Boston Transcript.

"Did the looker-on at the fight go home in the interim?" "No, sir; he went home in the ambulance."—Baltimore American.

Motorist—"Have you driven for good people?" Chauffeur—"Gee! You should have seen the obituaries of some of 'em."—Puck.

"Incitation," said Uncle Eben, "is de greatest flattery; but dat ain't no satisfaction. Chicken-stealin' ain't no less annoyin' because it's due to overwelmin' admiration foh yoh special poultry collection."—Washington Star.

His Trouble.

A stenographer was out of a job. He was discussing the best ways and means of rehabilitating his ebbing bank roll with a friend who also was listed among the unemployed. Said the friend: "If I were you, I'd write a letter for money." "I have already done so," replied the stenographer. "For how much?" "Well, $3,000." "Well," asked the friend in astonishment. "Well," repeated the shorthand man sadly, "the letter asking for the $3,000 is all ready to mail, but I'll be darned if I can think of anybody to mail it to."—New York Times.

Going Him One Better.

A Tennessee mountaineer, not in the "moonshine" belt, went to town, and among other things he bought a jug of whiskey. Not wanting to carry it about with him, he decided to leave it at a grocery store for a while.

In order that the jug might be properly identified he took a deck of cards from his pocket, extracted the five of hearts, wrote his name upon it and attached it to the handle of the jug.

Two hours later the mountaineer returned. The jug was gone. "Look here, Jim," he cried to the proprietor of the store, "do you know what became of that jug o' mine?"

"Sure!" rejoined the proprietor. "Jake Harwell came along with the six of hearts and took it."—Everybody's Magazine.

ANOTHER BIG DANCE.

Wilbur Feds to Hold Popular Dance at Griffiths's Hall, March 1.

On Wednesday evening, March 1, the many friends of the Wilbur Feds baseball club will have another chance to renew acquaintances, this time it will be in Griffiths's Hall on Hasbrouck avenue. Every one has spoken of the excellent time had at the Feds last dance in Washington Hall in the late fall of 1915; of the fine manner in which it was conducted, and the many who will no doubt take advantage of this dance are assured of every convenience for comfort and enjoyment. The Feds have a reputation for giving their patrons a good time and will try to outdo themselves on the evening of March 1. From all accounts there will be a large crowd and it is advisable to purchase your tickets at the earliest moment.

KINGSTON BOYS
BEST SWIMMERS

The boys of the local Y. M. C. A. won the big swimming meet on Saturday afternoon, defeating the Poughkeepsie boys by a total score of 43½ points to 33½ points. The Poughkeepsie boys, however, deserve great credit for their work as they entered a team of but three boys in the meet while Kingston had ten boys entered. Wiseman, of Poughkeepsie, was also the highest point scorer in the meet, securing 20 points for his team, while Huestis, of the locals, secured 18½ points for his team.

Physical Director Godfrey on March 11 will take the Kingston team down to Poughkeepsie, where another swimming meet will be held.

The first event of the afternoon was the 18 yards swim, which was won in the fast time of 7 4-5 seconds by Wiseman of Poughkeepsie, with Huestis of Kingston second.

The fancy dive was won by McGrane of Kingston, with Wiseman of Poughkeepsie, second.

Vignes of Kingston and Wiseman of Poughkeepsie tied for first place in the 40 yard swim, covering the distance in 28 2-5 seconds.

In the plunge dive for distance, Huestis of Kingston won first place with a dive of 30 feet 9 inches, while Schwartz of Poughkeepsie was second with a dive of 28 feet and 6 inches.

The 26 yard breast stroke swim was also won by Huestis of Kingston in 22 1-5 seconds, with Wiseman of Poughkeepsie, second.

The under water swim was won by Myers of Poughkeepsie, who swam 99 feet under water before he was forced to come to the top for breath.

Wiseman of Poughkeepsie took second place, covering 73 feet under water before coming to the top.

Bishop of Kingston won the 26 yard swim on back in 25 seconds, with Huestis of Kingston and Myers of Poughkeepsie tied for second place.

Painless Extractions

During the year 1915 the Cady Dental Offices in Poughkeepsie, Kingston, Newburgh and Middletown performed over ten thousand extractions. These operations were painless. Local Anaesthetics were used in the majority of cases but nitrous-oxide gas in a few. This wonderful record should make a deep impression on those who have teeth which require extraction and desire to have the operation done painlessly.

harked back to his early career as a student in the office of Schoonmaker & Hardenburgh and named some of the law firms of the time such as Van Etten & Clearwater, F. L. & T. R. Westbrook, Lawton & Stebbins and Marius Schoonmaker, the authority in the chancery courts of that period, which seemed but a few years ago to the speaker. "And Judge Kenyon, who did more for the young men of the bar than any other member," said the speaker, "it seems but a short time ago that we were gathered in honor of his 75th birthday."

Judge Parker referred to leading lights of the bar in Saugerties and in Ellenville in those days and to the passing of all these older members, save Judge Clearwater and B. M. Coon, which reminded him that it was a long distance back after all.

True to Highest Ideals.

"No one can review the careers of these men," declared the speaker, "and say that they did not stand by the best ideals of our profession. On the bench, the brilliant Westbrook was succeeded by Judge Clearwater, by Judge Betts and by Judge Hasbrouck and none will say but that each of them proved worthy of the trust reposed in him."

Continuing, Judge Parker declared that these members of the bar of that earlier period were not confined in their activities to the practice of law but were leaders in public affairs and most liberal of all in support of popular causes. He then called especial attention to the far-reaching decisions of the courts in the Lockran and Ives cases; how in the latter case the reversal of the court of appeals was attacked and how subsequent amendment of the constitution within a year and nine months time vindicated that court's judgment.

How Recall Was Beaten.

How the recall of judges was effectively opposed by the American Bar Association through the medium of local bar associations was cited as an instance of successful leadership of lawyers in awakening public sentiment on the right side and the speaker predicted that the judicial recall will soon be abandoned by the four states where it is now in operation and thus, he said, assure an absolutely independent judiciary, for by that only can our system of government be preserved.

Judge Parker then referred to the newspaper account of the organization of a branch of the security league in Kingston with Judge Clearwater at the head and praised the object of this arousing public sentiment to the necessity of reasonable preparedness.

Insurance Against War.

"That sentiment," he said with earnestness, "must be created and it is only by local organizations of this character that it can be built so strongly that every congressman, whether a Democrat or a Republican, will understand what the people want. It is our purpose to insure our children and our grandchildren from the destruction and horrors of war. This can be done by the expenditure of money, and we have the money. Every congressman should be made to understand that this is the sentiment of the people at home and if he does not understand and act accordingly, let him be swept out of office."

Nestor of Ulster Bar.

Judge Clearwater was given an ovation when presented by the toastmaster and was at his best in reminiscence vein, making a powerful plea for the profession in the present day as well as in the generations past. He referred to himself as being the oldest member of the bar today and went back a half century to the time when he began his law studies. At this time, the speaker said, there were nine of the most talented young men who ever studied law in Ulster county, enrolled as law students. "All of them are dead," said Judge Clearwater, "and McDonald Van Wagoner and myself have stood by the open grave of every one of them. Very few of the men here, save Judge Parker, recall them."

Continuing the speaker referred to his first appearance in the court of appeals, 45 years ago, when such Judges were sitting as Sanford E. Church and Judge Folger, and Judge Westbrook from our own county was on the supreme court bench.

Praise For Judge Parker.

"We never had a man," declared Judge Clearwater, "whose success was so great and so brilliant and well deserved as Judge Parker's. I say this with due appreciation of past differences on political and professional matters but these never degenerated into personal enmity although marked perhaps with a subtle tinge of feeling, asperity at times and the austerity of statement characteristic of our profession. It is a charming thing to have him come back to us in his renewed youth with his record of brilliant successes and useful service—there is no place to which his heart turns more readily than toward us his fellow members of the Ulster county bar."

A Non-Partisan Endorsement.

Judge Clearwater next mentioned the important action taken with respect to the endorsement of Judge Howard and referred to the delicacy and propriety of such action having originated among members of a different party standard. He made the statement, he said, so that no criticism might arise of any unfair advantage being taken of a festive occasion. The very spontaneity of the endorsement, he said, demonstrated that it was without prearrangement.

The speaker then referred to Bacon's idea that every lawyer owed a duty to his profession and said that he had improved on Bacon's golden milestone of life by raising the limit from 50 to 250 years. In admonitory vein Judge Clearwater proceeded to refer to the inertia of the bar and to impress upon his hearers the fact that all great reforms were advanced originally by the bar and that justice, properly administered, must depend upon a fearless, independent and honest bar. It was the irony of fate, the speaker said, that the profession should be judged by a few baser examples among its followers. Medicine and the ministry were not so judged, although neither had so few disreputable members as the law, he held, and challenged his hearers to recall any number of such.

"Shysters at the bar," he declared, "hypocrites in the pulpit and quacks among the doctors; we have less of the disreputable represented in our profession than in any of the others and yet we are judged by this exceedingly small element."

People, he said, go to lawyers only in time of trouble and the years of preparation and tireless energy of the lawyer are given to their service. The trouble passed, the lawyer's compensation is too often forgotten with the value of his services.

Governor Wanted Opinion.

Judge Clearwater mentioned that none other than the governor of the state, himself a distinguished lawyer, had asked him that very morning as they sat at a banquet board in Albany as to his belief on the compensation of lawyers of which the public prints have had so much to say of late.

The speaker said in reply that in his belief the profession never seemed to be properly paid, not to mention overpaid. And to those years of preparation the years of waiting and self-denial and the anxiety and loyalty a lawyer brings to his client, and the profession is not overpaid, he declared. For the wrong attitude of the public mind, lawyers have but themselves to blame very often in the opinion of the speaker.

Opportunity is Alluring.

As to the present opportunity that the profession offers to the young men, Judge Clearwater said he did not know of a finer, greater opening today than in the field of forensic effort. Great public questions, great subjects of common and statute law, offer greatest opportunity for future public service, he stated. The profession has its greatest object in the preservation of a free state and a written constitution for nothing, declared the speaker, stands between this great republic and anarchy but a fearless, independent and honest bar.

"The bar," he said, "was never faced with a more serious situation than confronts it now when hardly a well-informed man in the country but knows we are at the parting of the ways when a slight error might precipitate us into the cataclysmic conflict from which we could not emerge with dignity and perhaps not without the loss of honor."

In disposition of these questions, the speaker held the bar must take a prominent part being composed of sober-minded reflective men regarded in the capitals of state and nation as the most important factor in the preservation of the distinctive characteristics of the republic.

"This is not said as an alarmist," declared Judge Clearwater, "but I say this to you here, to the young and alluring faces I see whose possessors will take our places, whatever comes never forget you owe a great duty to your profession but that you owe a still greater duty to the nation which shelters it."

Judge Clearwater was followed by Judge John G. Van Etten who was introduced as a former jurist who for the past decade had devoted himself to agriculture and the growing of prize cattle. Judge Van Etten paid a graceful tribute to Judge Howard and expressed appreciation of what jurist's courtesy on the bench, citing the pleasure of the Ulster bar in being able to extend its endorsement of that fourteen years of judicial service rendered by the guest of honor.

Instruction in Schools.

On preparedness, Judge Van Etten expressed himself most emphatically, declaring it his belief that every able-bodied man should be equipped to defend his country should the time ever come his services were needed. Now that education was made compulsory for the benefit of the state, he said that military instruction might properly be added to that education and every child educated to the duty of national defense.

Not only would the setting-up exercises be worth while, said the speaker, but the discipline would be of greatest value inasmuch as American youth is now growing up without discipline. With military training, he believed the boys would prove willing recruits to the peaceful army of men able to defend the principles for which the country stands.

terested, said Judge Van Etten, as the inhabitants of this, the third settlement in the state, had always fought and fought gloriously to defend those principles.

"The man whose memory we honor today," said the speaker, "was willing to shed the blood of hundreds of thousands of men to defend those principles and every man in the county should have a similar attitude and favor being prepared."

Bernard Maines Returns to Tell of Many Thrilling Experiences in the Army and With Circus Companies.—Was With Jess Willard.

Bernard Maines, who left Kingston about eight years ago, is visiting relatives and acquaintances in town. Mr. Maines was only 19 years old when he went away from here. Since he has been gone he has visited every state in the union. When he left Kingston he went direct to New York city, where he boated around the harbor for about a year. Then he enlisted at 46th street and 6th avenue in the Fourth U. S. Cavalry. Afterwards he was honorably discharged, having been declared to be an expert rifleman. His company left a while afterwards for the Philippine Islands. If he had re-enlisted he would have seen service there too. He was stationed at South Dakota, where he was in several skirmishes during the Indian uprisings. He has also been with Barnum & Bailey's big shows, forerunner of Sells and Cook & Wilson, in charge of nine trained lions, the largest weighing over 800 pounds. Mr. Maines was at one time with 101 Wild West Show when the present champion of the world prize fighter, Jess Willard, was with them. He has had some very thrilling experiences while he has been away.

THEY SAY.

Observance of Lincoln's birthday in Kingston was largely confined to the closing of banks and public offices in accordance with custom. The main observance of the occasion will be in the high school exercises this evening.

The members of the local police force now have another problem to wrestle with and minor topics have been shelved until the question of whether the police shall be paid twice a month or once a month as at present is definitely settled. The police board desires to ascertain the sentiment of the force regarding whether a change from the monthly to the semi-monthly system of payment is desired and a paper is being circulated among the force with the request that each member signify his preference by writing either "monthly" or "semi-monthly" alongside his name. So far all but eight members have signed. Seven members desire being paid as usual, by the month, while 11 signify that they desire to be paid semi-monthly.

Dealers report the usual amount of interest manifested by the youngsters in valentines and the postal receipts will be given their annual boost from this exchange of greetings. Manufacturers of valentines changed their policy this year, according to one well known dealer, who called attention to the greater designs that marked the offerings. The more elaborate efforts composed of celluloid and lace paper are quite out of the running in favor of the pretty little cards carrying appropriate sentiments. In view of the fact that this is leap year considerable impetus to the trade was expected but to date this has not been borne out. A report at noon today said there was congestion in the mails of the several barbers whose cards were recently published in these columns.

Animal and Plant Life in Brine.

Just west of Promontory Point station, Utah, is a pond cut off from the Great Salt Lake by the railroad embankment. At times of high water in the lake this reservoir fills by percolation through the embankment, but during the summer this water is concentrated to a brine by evaporation. The deep pink color of the brine is a phenomenon that appears in salt ponds generally when a certain concentration is reached. In the salt ponds of San Francisco Bay this color is due to a certain bacillus which lives in saturated brines and also in the heaps of salt as it is piled for drainage and shipment. Prohibitive to life as such an environment might be considered, strong natural brines are, in fact, inhabited by a number of minute organisms, animals as well as plants. The pink color disappears in winter or when fresh water is introduced into the pond.—United States Geological Survey.

Human Sacrifices.

In little the Aztecs strove to save life so that they could use their prisoners as human sacrifices to the gods. They had the art of ambush reduced to such a science that it was nothing unusual for them to bring home 25,000 prisoners after a campaign. Their battles were not fought for the sake of any principle, nor yet to gain territory. They fought in order to capture prisoners, and the hot headed young soldiers were given wooden swords, for fear they might in the heat of battle unwittingly slay a foe. A dead enemy was already dead, and hence of no value for sacrificial purposes. Were the Aztecs human? Well, not so that you could notice. But their destruction of prisoners on the altars of their beautiful temples was done in the name of religion and hence not reprehensible.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Test For a Field Glass.

Inquiry has it that the absolute and infallible test of a field glass by the purchaser is to see what size letters can be read across the street from the optician's shop.

It isn't. The real test is to climb up a long and lanky hill until the breath comes a hundred to the minute, then snatch for the glass, reposing in a shirt pocket, to see whether the book is the one you want before you fire. If it won't go in your shirt pocket it isn't the glass you want; others are made that will. If it shakes in your arched hands it is not the glass you want. You cannot see enough more with a high power glass to pay for the times when it is unusable, because you cannot hold it steady.—Ontario.

In Memoriam.

The many friends of Harvey Schoonmaker were shocked to hear of his terrible death. He was the sole support of his widowed mother and sister. He was of a kind and loving disposition; loved by all who knew him. He was to have been married in a few weeks to Miss Laura Ferguson of Rifton. We extend our sympathy to her and the family. God's will be done. We miss him; yes we miss him. But God's will be done.

G. A. HART & CO.
KINGSTON, N. Y.

arked back to his early career as a student in the office of Schoonmaker & Hardenburgh and named some of the law firms of the time, such as Van Etten & Clearwater, F. L. & T. R. Westbrook, Lawton & Stebbins and Marins Schoonmaker, the authority in the chancery courts of that period, which seemed but a few years ago to the speaker. "And Judge Kenyon, who did more for the young men of the bar than any other member," said the speaker. "It seems but a short time ago that we were gathered in honor of his 75th birthday."

True to Highest Ideals.

"No one can review the careers of these men," declared the speaker, "and say that they did not stand by the best ideals of our profession. On the bench, the brilliant Westbrook was succeeded by Judge Clearwater, by Judge Betts and by Judge Hasbrouck and none will say but that each of them proved worthy of the trust reposed in him."

Continuing, Judge Parker declared that these members of the bar of that earlier period were not confined in their activities to the practice of law but were leaders in public affairs and most liberal. He then called special attention to the far-reaching decisions of the courts in the Lockman and Ives cases; how in the latter case the reversal of the court of appeals was attacked and how subsequent amendment of the constitution within a year and nine months time vindicated that court's judgment.

How Recall Was Beaten.

How the recall of Judges was effectively opposed by the American Bar Association through the medium of local bar associations was cited as an instance of successful leadership of lawyers in awakening public sentiment on the right side and the speaker predicted that the judicial recall will soon be abandoned by the four states where it is now in operation and thus, he said, assure an absolutely independent judiciary, for by that only can our system of government be preserved.

Judge Parker then referred to the newspaper account of the organization of a branch of the security league in Kingston with Judge Clearwater at the head and praised the object of this arousing public sentiment to the necessity of reasonable preparedness.

Insurance Against War.

"That sentiment," he said with earnestness, "must be created and it is only by local organizations of this character that it can be built so strongly that every congressman, whether a Democrat or a Republican, will understand what the people want. It is our purpose to insure our children and our grandchildren from the destruction and horrors of war. This can be done by the expenditure of money, and we have the money. Every congressman should be made to understand that this is the sentiment of the people at home and if he does not understand and act accordingly, let him be swept out of office."

Nestor of Ulster Bar.

Judge Clearwater was given an ovation when presented by the toastmaster and was at his best in reminiscence, making a powerful plea for the profession in the present day as well as in the generations past. He referred to himself as being the oldest member of the bar today and went back a half century to the time when he began his law studies. At this time, the speaker said, there were nine of the most talented young men who ever studied law in Ulster county, enrolled as law students. "All of them are dead," said Judge Clearwater, "and McDonald Van Wagoner and myself have stood by the open grave of every one of them. Very few of the men here, save Judge Parker, recall them."

Continuing the speaker referred to his first appearance in the court of appeals, 43 years ago, when such Judges were sitting as Sanford E. Church and Judge Folger, and Judge Westbrook from our own county was on the supreme court bench.

Praise For Judge Parker.

"We never had a man," declared Judge Clearwater, "whose success was so great and so brilliant and well deserved as Judge Parker's. I say this with due appreciation of past differences on political and professional matters but these never degenerated into personal enmity although marked perhaps with a subtle tinge of feeling, asperity at times and the austerity of statement characteristic of our profession. It is a charming thing to have him come back to us in his renewed youth with his record of brilliant successes and useful service—there is no place to that toward us his fellow members of the Ulster county bar."

A Non-Partisan Endorsement.

Judge Clearwater next mentioned the important action taken with respect to the endorsement of Judge Howard and referred to the delivery and propriety of such action having originated among members of a different party standard. He made the statement, he said, so that no criticism might arise of any unfair advantage being taken of a festive occasion. The very spontaneity of the endorsement, he said, demonstrated that it was without prearrangement.

The speaker then referred to Bacon's idea that every lawyer owed a duty to his profession and said that he had improved on Bacon's golden milestone of life by raising the limit from 50 to 75 years. In advisory vein Judge Clearwater proceeded to refer to the inertia of the bar and to impress upon his hearers the fact that all great reforms were advanced originally by the bar and that justice, properly administered, must depend upon a fearless, independent and honest bar. It was the irony of fate, the speaker said, that the profession should be judged by a few baser examples among its followers. Medicine and the ministry were not so judged, although neither had so few creditable members as the law, he held, and challenged his hearers to recall any number of such.

"Shysters at the bar," he declared, "hypocrites in the pulpit and quacks among the doctors; we have less of the disreputable represented in our profession than in any of the others and yet we are judged by this exceedingly small element."

People, he said, go to lawyers only in time of trouble and the years of preparation and tireless energy of the lawyer are given to their service. The trouble passed, the lawyer's compensation is too often forgotten with the value of his services.

Governor Wanted Opinion.

Judge Clearwater mentioned that none other than the governor of the state, himself a distinguished lawyer, had asked him that very morning as they sat at a banquet board in Albany as to his belief on the compensation of lawyers of which the public prints have had so much to say of late.

The speaker said in reply that in his belief the profession never seemed to be properly paid, not to mention overpaid. And to those years of preparation and the anxiety and loyalty a lawyer brings to his client, and the profession is not overpaid, he declared. For the wrong attitude of the public mind, lawyers have but themselves to blame very often in the opinion of the speaker.

Opportunity is Alluring.

As to the present opportunity that the profession offers to the young men, Judge Clearwater said he did not know of a finer, greater opening today than in the field of forensic effort. Great public questions, great subjects of common and statute law, offer greatest opportunity for future public service, he stated. The profession has its greatest object in the preservation of a free state and a written constitution for nothing declared the speaker, stands between this great republic and anarchy but a fearless, independent and honest bar.

"The bar," he said, "was never faced with a more serious situation than confronts it now when hardly

Painless Extractions

During the year 1915 the Cady Dental Offices in Poughkeepsie, Kingston, Newburgh and Middletown performed over ten thousand extractions. These operations were painless. Local Anesthetics were used in the majority of cases but nitrous-oxide gas in a few. This wonderful record should make a deep impression on those who have teeth which require extraction and desire to have the operation done painlessly.

a well-informed man in the country but knows we are at the parting of the ways when a slight error might precipitate us into the cataclysmic conflict from which we could not emerge with dignity and perhaps not without the loss of honor."

In disposition of these questions the speaker held the bar must take a prominent part, being composed of sober-minded reflective men regardless in the capitals of state and nation as the most important factor in the preservation of the distinctive characteristics of the republic.

"This is not said as an alarmist," declared Judge Clearwater, "but I say this to you here, to the young and alluring faces I see whose possessors will take our places, whatever comes never forget you owe a great duty to your profession but that you owe a still greater duty to the nation which shelters it."

Judge Clearwater was followed by Judge John G. Van Etten who was introduced as a former jurist who for the past decade had devoted himself to agriculture and the growing of prize cattle. Judge Van Etten paid a graceful tribute to Judge Howard and expressed appreciation of what jurist's courtesy on the bench, citing the pleasure of the Ulster bar in being able to extend its endorsement of that fourteen years of judicial service rendered by the guest of honor.

Instruction in Schools.

On preparedness, Judge Van Etten expressed himself most emphatically, declaring it his belief that every able-bodied man should be equipped to defend his country should the time ever come his services were needed. Now that education was made compulsory for the benefit of the state, he said that military instruction might properly be added to that education and every child educated to the duty of national defense.

Not only would the setting-up exercises be worth while, said the speaker, but the discipline would be of greatest value inasmuch as American youth is now growing up without discipline. With military training, he believed the boys would prove willing recruits to the peaceful army of men able to defend the principles for which the country stands.

Ulster County Interested.

Particularly was this county interested, said Judge Van Etten, as the inhabitants of this, the third settlement in the state, had always fought and fought gloriously to defend those principles.

"The man whose memory we honor today," said the speaker, "was willing to shed the blood of hundreds of thousands of men to defend those principles and every man in the county should have a similar attitude and favor being prepared."

Jay E. Klock spoke briefly on some entertaining comparisons of professional standards after which Judge Jenkins closed what was generally stated to be one of the most interesting and remarkable gatherings in the history of the bar of Ulster county.

METTACAHONTS.

Mettacahonts, Feb. 14.—Mrs. Elizabeth Bush, who has been ill with pneumonia and under the care of Dr. Harker of Kerhonkson, remains about the same.

Don't fail to attend the Ladies Aid entertainment Friday evening, Feb. 18, at the school house. Admission will be ten cents. Be sure and come and bring all your friends. See a good entertainment, get your money's worth and enjoy yourself. Everybody welcome. A good supper with all sorts of good things to fill an empty stomach will be served at the close of the entertainment, which will consist of several fine plays, two sides of hitting monologues and lots of good music.

What caused quite a commotion and might have been more serious, as the exploding of a house lamp at Clarence Frier's recently. Luckily the blaze was extinguished before damage was wrought.

E. B. Hendrickson is spending several days visiting out of town. Miss Berrie Wood called on her grandmother, Mrs. Jane Osterhout on Friday morning.

Mrs. Andrew Krom is at present entertaining at the home of Dr. Hutchings at Hix Falls, where she recently underwent a serious operation. It is expected she will be well enough to be moved to her home by Monday. All hope for her speedy and permanent recovery.

The meetings held in the school house during the week have been largely attended and very successful.

This week was the concluding week of them here, Mr. Forst, sorry to say was unable to be present Thursday evening, owing to a severe cold.

Andrew Krom and two daughters, Misses Roxie and Orpha were Ellenville visitors on Thursday. Mrs. S. E. Churchwell plans on leaving the last part of this week for Ellenville, where she will spend nearly a week as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Morris on Park street. We wish her a very pleasant visit.

When a Book is Worth Something.
No book is worth anything which is not worth much; nor is it serviceable, until it has been read, and reread, and loved, and loved again; and marked, so that you can refer to the passage you want in it, as a soldier can seize his needs in an armory, or a housewife bring the spice she needs from her store.—John Ruskin.
